Overview

In the solar industry, resale of used panels is just beginning to take off. Some solar equipment brokers have realized the economic opportunity of remarketing decommissioned solar panels. “Non-shattered panels always have someone who’s willing to buy them and put them back into use somewhere in the.

The repowering trend is expected to spike this decade in the United States. The primary reason for repowering has to do with aging components. Wood Mackenzie expects 800 GWDC will be repowered between 2021 and 2025 due to inverters reaching the end of.

Solar installers faced with decommissioning projects can partner with a solar equipment broker that has experience with second-hand equipment to properly handle.

Several considerations are taken into account when buyers are faced with the option to purchase second-hand modules. Such factors include age and efficiency level, price and condition. According to NREL, the average degradation rate of a solar panel is less.

Should I buy used solar panels?

If you are purchasing for personal use, you should keep in mind that renewable energy tax credits are not extended to used solar panels. Searching for the best deal when buying used solar panels requires diligence. However, it is worth it as used panels can deliver significant savings over new.

Can solar panels be remarketed?

Some solar equipment brokers have realized the economic opportunity of remarketing decommissioned solar panels. “Non-shattered panels always have someone who’s willing to buy them and put them back into use somewhere in the world,” explained Jay Granat, owner of Jay’s Energy Equipment, a wholesale solar brokerage firm.

Why do people buy used solar panels?

The demand for used solar panels comes from resellers or exporters, from individual buyers looking for cheaper second-hand panels, and from those who practice off-grid living. When times are hard, people favor used solar panels over brand-new ones even more. The problem with used solar panels for sale is the risk of buying damaged goods.

Are solar panels a hard sell?

Thanks to the rising popularity of solar energy in the U.S., it's not really a hard sell anymore. In fact, a Pew Research Center survey from 2019 found that 46% of U.S. homeowners had given serious thought to adding solar panels to their homes in the past year. Want to sell more solar panels?
